

Electrical Services Pricing Structure

As a freelance electrical contractor specialising in marine electrical systems, I provide high-quality services to boat owners and operators. The following pricing structure outlines my rates for various services.

Hourly Rates

- For routine electrical work (e.g., maintenance, repairs, installations) on board boats, my standard hourly rate is 40 EUR per hour.
- For risk-demanding jobs that require specialised skills and equipment my hourly rate is 80 EUR per hour. Examples of such jobs:
 - Climbing up the mast
 - Diving underwater to inspect or repair electrical components

Lithium Installation Pricing

For projects involving lithium battery installations or migration from lead acid to lithium systems, or other related work, I charge a lump sum of 200 EUR plus my standard hourly rate.

Victron Component Updates

For updating Victron components (e.g., firmware updates, configuration changes), I charge a flat fee of 50 EUR per device update plus my standard hourly rate.

Digital Drawing of Electrical Systems

When making a digital drawing of an electrical system, I charge a fixed fee of 150 EUR plus my standard hourly rate. For any alterations made to that initial drawing, there is an additional charge of 50 EUR per alteration.

Additional Charges

Travel fees and expenses may be charged separately, depending on the location and distance traveled. These charges will be discussed and agreed upon upfront with the client.

Materials and parts costs including shipment fees will be invoiced separately to the customer upfront. The order for these materials will not be placed until payment is received.

If a project or task requires an additional person to assist me, I reserve the right to engage a sub-contractor at my discretion. In this case, you will be invoiced for their labor costs at 40 EUR per hour.

Terms and Conditions

This document outlines my rates and charges for electrical services on boats. Please note that prices are subject to change, and I reserve the right to adjust these rates as needed.
